

REYKJAVÍK TO LIVERPOOL

Embark on an unforgettable 13-night voyage across the Atlantic from Reykjavík to Liverpool. Departing from the Icelandic capital, we spend a quiet day at sea before reaching Torshavn on the Faroe Islands, where the lofty, rugged cliffs promise scenic drives and invigorating walks. Next, we visit Kirkwall in the Orkney Islands to see Neolithic sites and discover Viking heritage, before dropping down to Scotland, where an overnight in Newhaven brings us the rich cultural heritage and high-class shopping of the vibrant capital, Edinburgh. Relax during a day at sea prior to discovering the picturesque French coastal towns of Le Havre and Saint-Malo. After that, we return to Britain at the Cornish fishing port of Fowey before hopping across the Celtic Sea to Waterford, Ireland, famous for its crystal-glass production. Following visits to Holyhead, gateway to the rugged Isle of Anglesey in North Wales, and Douglas on the Isle of Man, where a ride on a steam train is a must-do, your journey ends on the northwest coast of England in Liverpool, hometown of The Beatles.
